Have you ever thought about the world's best medicine? If you ask me, the answer would be yourself. I learned from a herbal astrology Oracle.

For example, the card draw with the number 12 says "roses and love."

Roses are well known for their medicinal properties, particularly in the treatment of mental imbalances, inner despair and grief relief, and emotion balancing. The goddess of beauty and love is symbolized by the rose. Roses have long been connected to love, passion, admiration, and desire across many civilizations. The goddess, the all-powerful creator, is represented by the rose in all her facets. Rose is a feminine, soft, calming, and balanced plant. It is also recognized to improve mood and support the heart and circulatory system in medicine.

However, the rose picture alone cannot change anything. It's the card that serves as a gentle reminder that love is in order. to traverse the most arduous pathways and to experience love in spite of all the challenges you encounter. Yourself is the best medicine to get trough all the tough thing.
